

PRESS CUTTING

The screenshot shows the Urban Realm website interface. At the top left is the 'URBAN REALM' logo with the tagline 'PPA Scottish Magazine of the Year 2010'. To the right is a red banner for 'URBAN REALM Roses Design Awards' with the text 'Proud sponsors of the Roses Design Awards 2011 Ramada Jarvis hotel, Manchester -13/10/11 www.rosesdesignawards.com'. Below the logo is a navigation menu with links: Home, Directories, New Buildings, Blogs, News, Features, Diary, Jobs, Magazine, The Carbunde Awards. A search bar is also present.

The main content area features a news article titled 'Brighten Scotland competition launched' dated 'September 29 2011'. The article text reads: 'A competition has been launched to give the public a chance to nominate prominent, publically owned, metal structures for refurbishment and protection from the ravages of rust. Brighten Scotland is seeking one winning structure - be it a play park, street furniture, civic installation or piece of public art - to be refurbished, coloured and protected from the elements. Highland Galvanizers & Colour Coaters, specialists in the hot dip process of metal protection, are sponsoring the competition as part of their long running campaign to improve the appearance of our public spaces. All 32 local authorities in Scotland are also being invited to nominate metal structures suffering from erosion for a free dip in Highland's zinc baths. Urban Realm editor John Glenday is teaming up with artist Andy Scott and Dave Heflin, UK & Ireland head of AkzoNobel Powder Coatings and Cromadex, to judge the competition.'

Accompanying the article is a photograph of a large, red, wireframe sculpture of a stag with large antlers, standing in a grassy field. To the right of the article is a Facebook social media widget with the text 'Like us on Facebook Become a fan and share' and a 'News Archive' sidebar listing months from 2011 (October, September, August, July, June, May, April, March, February, January) to 2009.